Message from the Police Chief Kip Botkin

There will be a police bike auction of "surplus property bicycles" conducted at the police station, (920 North Main, Alpine) on Saturday, November 6, 2004. Many concerns have been raised about the "mini motorcycles", "pocket rockets" and motorized scooters. These create an immense safety concern. The young people who ride them frequently do not recognize the danger involved. Although the MOTORIZED ASSISTED SCOOTERS are "legal" they carry strict restrictions which include, but are not limited to: any rider under 16 years of age must have CONSTANT, DIRECT PARENT OR LEGAL GUARDIAN SUPERVISION; are not allowed on any public street posted for a speed greater than 25 miles per hour; are not allowed on sidewalks; and other restrictions.

The "mini motorcycles", "pocket rockets" and similar devices (ones which are designed to rely completely on a motor for mobility) are not legal on the street or sidewalk. They are classified as a "mini bike" and it is ILLEGAL to operate them on anything other than private property. Please remember that parenting is a full time job and includes educating, instructing, supervising, and protecting your children. The Police Department believes that the way some of these motorized vehicles are operated is a recipe for serious injury. Please help protect your child by having a serious discussion about the safe and LEGAL operation of these items.

Message from Animal Control Officer Stephanie Hayden

Recently we have had several calls of concern about humane treatment of animals. The State of Utah has spelled out what it considers humane treatment of animals. Animals must have necessary food, water, and adequate protection against extreme weather. This includes appropriate and necessary veterinary care. Animals may not be confined or transported in a cruel manner. Animals may not be injured, beaten, or tortured. Animals may not be shot, poisoned, or killed without a legal right to do so. Animals must not be allowed to fight with another animal for amusement or gain. Animals must not be abandoned. All of these offenses are punishable under Utah state law. Individual cities may have their own animal ordinances that define even further what is considered humane care of animals.

Notwithstanding city and state law, there are many ideas and theories on how animals should be treated. What is appropriate care to one person may be considered neglect to another. As a police department we can only enforce the laws that are currently in place by the state or city. We can, however, offer information and suggestions on humane care and treatment of animals. We have a wide variety of articles and brochures available that address the issue of humane care of animals. If you see a situation where you think an animal may be neglected or abused, please feel free to call us at 756-9800. We will discuss the situation with you and decide what, if any, actions should be taken. We then can go out and check on the welfare of the animal and work with the owner on correcting problems if they exist. It is important that we, as a community, speak up for animals as they cannot speak for themselves. More information on humane care of animals can be found on the Humane Society of Utah web site www.utahhumane.org.

The Mobile Spay and Neuter Clinic continues to be a big success. If you are interested in finding out when they will be in our area again you can check their web site at www.utahpets.org or call 1-866-738-7349.
